

Eighteenth Century Collections Online, Part II

ECCO II is Integral to Your Library's Digital Wing

Enrich the original, acclaimed Eighteenth Century Collections Online, with the supplement: Eighteenth Century Collections Online, Part II. ECCO II provides a new, enhanced user interface as well as a wide selection of new material scanned over the past six years. The addition of these rare, hard-to-find works in an online, full-text searchable system will truly set your institution's research, scholarship, research and library apart.

Contents include:

- 50,000 new titles, totaling more than 6 million all-new pages of content,
- Rare and difficult-to-find texts not found in your library or through inter-library loan,
- Materials sourced from British Library, Oxford University, Cambridge University, National Library of Scotland, Library of Congress, among others.

TEN reasons to add Eighteenth Century Collections Online, Part II to your collection:

1. ECCO II is no less essential than ECCO I – it is integral and an absolute necessity for any 18th century scholarly research and publishing – comprehensiveness to completeness,
2. Includes titles recently uncovered by the ESTC, including some that are extremely fragile,
3. Early English Books Online (EEBO) – cross-searching functionality is in place,
4. MARC records enhancements, including LOC subject headings and full titles (June 2009),
5. Citation generator and bibliographic citation export functionality,
6. Enhanced new user interface with increased functionality ,
7. Ability to save marked items, user-entered notes and searches across sessions,
8. “Keyword in Context” view from results list,
9. Research Guide section with contextual essays and chronology for undergraduates,
10. Image Gallery and Key Documents sections.
